HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

FRIDAY, Feb. 24.

NON-INTERCOURSE.

The house again in committee of the whole,

Mr. BASSETT in the chair;

On the bill from the Senate, for the interdicting commercial intercourse, &c.

Mr. D. R. Williams rose to rescue himself from any imputation of inconsistency. He had been extremely happy when the gentleman rose, to hear him avow his intention of rescuing the bill from some of the imputations cast on it; for really it was somewhat necessary, as no reasons had yet been offered in favor of the bill. But he denied that the gentleman had succeeded in his efforts. The resolution for non-intercourse which had been adopted at the commencement of the session had been intended to go in aid of the embargo; it did not contemplate a repeal of the embargo, as this bill did—and there was, therefore, no inconsistency in voting for that resolution and against this bill. As to the additional duty being a burthen, if the law passed as it now stood and was executed, it deprived the people of the article altogether; if not executed, the premium to the smuggler would amount in some cases to 500 per cent instead of 50 or 25 per cent. And unquestionably it could not be executed; for notwithstanding the existence of actual war between G. Britain and France, and all the revenue officers and military force of both, the British market had always been supplied with French claret and Spanish wool.—The gentleman from Virginia had endeavored to saddle him and his friend (Mr. Taylor) with inconsistency because he could not defend the bill—for it could not be defended.

Mr. Bacon, however he might be prepared to urge arguments against the bill, said he could not in charity push the argument any further upon gentlemen; for no gentleman had attempted to defend it except the gentleman from Virginia, (Mr. Gholson) who with the characteristic gallantry of a young and active soldier, had done the best he could for it. Mr. Bacon however only rose as he had been alluded to as having an amendment in his possession, to read it to the house. Mr. B. read the following section as an amendment which in connection with other sections containing details, he intended to propose if Mr. Williams's amendment should be carried:

"And be it further enacted, That the commander and crew of any merchant vessel of the United States, owned and navigated wholly by a citizen or citizens thereof, may oppose and defend against any unlawful restraint or seizure not authorized by the customary and acknowledged law of nations, which shall be attempted upon such vessel, or upon any other vessel armed and navigated as aforesaid, by the commander or crew of any foreign armed vessel, and may repel by force any assault or hostility which shall be made or committed on the part of such foreign armed vessel pursuing such attempt, and may subdue and capture the same; and may also retake any vessel owned and navigated as aforesaid, which may have been captured contrary to the customary and acknowledged laws of nations, by any foreign armed vessel.

Mr. B. observed, however, even if the bill should not be amended, he should vote for it, chiefly because the term of its duration was limited, and it might produce a little good.

Mr. J. G. Jackson conceived that the expedient proposed was even worse than the non-intercourse bill. He rose, however, to expose the evil tendency of the amendment suggested by Mr. Bacon, which contemplated giving to merchants the power to chuse what attacks or seizures they chose to consider unlawful, and thus involve the United States with whom they chose. He warned gentlemen against adopting it. If war was to be made, let it be declared according to the constitution.

Mr. Williams's motion was then negatived, 51 to 50.

Mr. Cook renewed the motion to strike out the same part of the bill, for the purpose of inserting an amendment for arming our merchant vessels as a substitute for it. In support of his motion Mr. Cook urged a number of arguments. He was opposed to the non-intercourse system. There was no fear of the arming system driving the nation into war; for whatever acts should be committed by our armed vessels would be the acts of individuals and not of the nation. He had heard from parts of the union, from people not to be interested in or injured by such a course, cries for war, war, war—at whose expence? Not at theirs, but of those on the margin of the ocean, who all wished for peace. Mr. Cook again deprecated the continuance of the embargo, and expressed his concurrence in opinion with Mr. Randolph, that our administration was pursuing a course somewhat similar to that of Lord North under the British government. The course which he proposed would promote union and again unite a divided people. The following is the amendment which Mr. Cook proposed to insert:

"And be it further enacted, That from and after the 20th day of May next, the merchant vessels owned wholly by a citizen or citizens of the United States, and navigated wholly by citizens of the U. States, and not in any part laden with goods contraband of war, and not bound to any port or place actually blockaded and invested, and pursuing a commerce permitted by the laws of the United States, may be armed and equipped, and may defend their neutral rights by resisting the late decrees of France and orders of Great Britain, which violate the long established rights of neutrality; and may repel by force any assault or hostility which shall be made or committed on the part of any French or British vessel of war, in pursuance of such decrees or orders; and to subdue and capture the same: and to retake any vessel of the U. States, owned, navigated, ladened and bound as aforesaid, which may have been captured pursuant to such decrees or orders by any vessel sailing under French or British colors, and acting or pretending to act by or under authority of such decrees or orders from the French or British governments."

MONDAY, Feb. 27.

On motion of Mr. M'Creery,

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to enquire into the expediency of prohibiting by law, for a limited time, the exportation of arms, ammunition, canvass and cordage, and that they have leave to report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. M'Creery, Mr. Quincy, and Mr. Mumford were appointed a committee pursuant to the above.

Mr. J. K. Smith presented a bill to extend for 14 years from the year 1811, to Amos and William Whitemore, jun. the patent right to a machine for manufacturing cotton and wool cards.

Read the first and second time and ordered to be engrossed for a third reading to-morrow.

Mr. Rhea (Tenn.) presented a bill to alter and establish certain post roads. Committed to a committee of the whole house to-morrow.

Mr. Jer. Morrow, from the committee on the public lands, reported on the several petitions of Job Sheldon, William Erwin and Richard Long, which was read and leave given the petitioners to withdraw their petitions.

Mr. M'Creery presented a bill to prohibit for a limited time the exportation of arms ammunition, canvas, cordage and hemp, and for encouraging the importation thereof.—Read and committed to a committee of the whole house to-morrow.

Mr. Holmes presented a bill to authorise the accounting officers of the treasury to settle the account of the legal representatives of John Daniel Schweighause. Read and committed for to-morrow.

Mr. Blount offered a resolution in the following words:

Resolved, That the committee to which was referred so much of the message of the president as relates to the military and naval establishments, be instructed to enquire how to the expediency of increasing the bounty now allowed by law to recruit in the military service.

The question was taken to agree to the said resolution, and negatived.

A message was received from the president of the United States as followeth:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the U. S.

I now lay before Congress a statement of the militia of the United States, according to the latest returns received by the department of war.

TH: JEFFERSON.

February 25, 1809.

The said message and statement were ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Nelson presented a memorial of thirteen hundred inhabitants of Frederick county, Md. stating their disapprobation of the edicts and decrees of the belligerents of Europe, and pledging themselves to support all such measures as congress may adopt for the honor, safety and prosperity of the union. Ordered to lie on the table.

The Speaker laid before the house a report of the secretary of the treasury on the petition of Daniel Jennings, collector of the internal taxes in the state of Ohio. Ordered to lie on the table.

The Speaker also laid before the house a report of the secretary of the treasury, transmitting an abstract of the emoluments of the officers of the customs for the year 1808.—Referred to the committee of commerce & manufactures.

The Speaker presented a memorial and remonstrance of the legislature of Massachusetts, expressing their disapprobation of the several embargo acts, and the opinions and views of that legislature of the system of policy pursued by the present administration of the general government. Also stating that in their opinion a disposition has been evinced on the part of the British government to cultivate peace and a good understanding with the U. S. whilst the representations and complaints of our minister in France have been treated with a contemptuous silence, or answered only with new outrages.

Mr. Quincy proposed to print the representation, which was rejected. Ordered to lie on the table.

Mr. Van Alen, from the joint committee for enrollment, reported the examination of three enrolled bills, to wit:

An act for the disposal of certain tracts of land in the Mississippi territory, &c.

An act for the relief of Daniel Cotton, and an act for the relief of certain Alibama and Wyandott Indians.

An engrossed bill further to amend the acts for the establishment and regulation of the executive departments, and making appropriations for the military and navy for the year 1809, was read the third time and passed.

The bill from the senate to repeal the embargo, and to interdict commercial intercourse with G. Britain, &c. was read the third time as amended.

And on the question that the same do pass, it was resolved in the affirmative—yeas 81, nays 40.

A message from the senate by Mr. Otis their secretary, notifying the appointment of a committee on their part to join a committee on the part of the house for the purpose of superintending the annual fund for the congressional library.

Adjourned at 4 o'clock.

NEW-YORK, Feb. 25.

POSTCRIPT.

Last evening the Editors of the New York Gazette received a Kingston paper (the Royal Gazette) of the 28th ult. It contains copious extract from London papers to Dec. 15, including French Bulletins to No. 12, which we shall give tomorrow—the substance of them, with some other articles, follow, as noticed by the London editor.

KINGSTON, Jan. 28.

Cleared, schr. Commerce, Chipman Norfolk. The American schr. President, Burgis, 37 days from Boston to St. Jago, with flour. butter, &c. detained on the 17th by the Pelican brig; and the schr. Maria, from Curracoa for St. Croix, with salt, detained, both arrived on Saturday. An American schr. arrived yesterday from New York, bound to Savannah, but blown off the coast!

The Mary hired Packet boat, Weston, with a mail arrived on Thursday. She left Falmouth Dec. 19. She left Barbadoes on the 17th inst. The London fleet of 200 sail, had just entered Carlisle Bay. They left Portsmouth Dec. 15.

Our London papers by the Mary are to Dec. 15. The Patriots of Spain have experienced a reverse of fortune, but not to that extent that the gasconading bulletins of the Moiteur proclaim; for the Cornwall Gazette of the 17th under the head of GOOD NEWS, says there is reason to hope, that the British troops have formed a junction with the patriots, and given a check to the insidious invaders of Spain.

The Mars Cutter arrived at Falmouth from Lisbon, which place she left on the 5th Dec. with dispatches from Madrid, dated Nov. 27. Capt. A. M'Caechy, of the 11th regiment was passenger. He informed that the news was of the most favorable nature. The affairs in Spain had taken a sudden turn in favor of the patriots—that they had rallied since the defeat of Castanos, and cut off 25,000 of the French. Such is the news from Madrid—it serves to shew that Bonaparte was not there the 27th.

LONDON, Dec. 15.

Rotterdam papers state, that an English vessel from South America, sent into the Meuse by a Danish privateer, has brought advice, that the English and Portuguese agents at Buenos Ayres, had failed in their mission—that Liniers had extensive powers from King Joseph, and had declared his resolution to remain a faithful ally of France.

December 14.

We this morning received Paris papers to the 11th instant, containing the 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th bulletins of the French army in Spain. The 11th bulletin is dated Aranda de Duero, and gives an account of the defeat of Castanos. The action took place on the 23d, at Tudela. It commenced at 9 o'clock in the morning, and ended in the defeat and dispersion of the Spanish army, of which 3300 including 300 officers were taken prisoners, and 4000 were left on the field of battle, or driven into the Ebro. The remainder of the defeated army were pursued by the French cavalry, part in the direction of Agreda and Tarracona, on the frontiers of Arragon. The pursuit was continued to the 25th inclusive, on which day a division of French cavalry arrived at Roa. The number of prisoners taken between that and the 23d amounted to 5000, all of the line.—No quarter was given to the armed peasants. It is remarkable, that although the Moniteurs to the 11th have been received, yet the last bulletin, the 12th is contained in the paper of the 5th, and the following Moniteurs contain no intelligence whatever from Spain. At the latest date, the 27th Bonaparte's head quarters were at Aranda de Duero, a town in Old Castile, on the Duero, about 30 leagues north of Madrid, to which capital, the bulletin boasts, it is only a pleasant walk. Besides the killed, wounded, taken in the disastrous battle of Tudela the Spaniards lost thirty pieces of cannon. The French generals particularly engaged in the action, were the duke of Montebello (Lasnes) and the duke of Cornegliano, (Moncey). Had the division of the duke of Elchingen (Ney) been in its position, it is said, not a Spaniard would have escaped. The Bulletins, previous to the 11th, relate chiefly to the operations against Blake's army. The French divisions that defeated it consisted chiefly of the divisions of the duke of Belluno (Victor) duke of Dalmatia (Soult) and the duke of Dantzic (Lefevre.)

In the battle of Tudela, on the 23d, the Spanish army under Castanos, amounted only to 45,000 men. Its position is said to have been absolutely bad, and that it did not make a formidable resistance.

SECOND EDITION.

Star office, three o'clock.

We stop the press to insert such particulars as have been allowed to transpire from the government officers:

BULLETIN.—Accounts have been received from Saragossa, dated the 26th, stating that gen. Castanos, upon hearing that the French were moving a corps upon Soria from Burgos, and passing the Ebro at Logrono, had assembled an army of 40,000 foot and 4000 horse, and had taken up a position in an oblique line from Tudela to Borja. This position was unfavorable, at Tudela, the right and the advanced part of the position, was commanded by heights, and was indefensible. The French took advantage of this error, and having collected an army of 45,000 men, commenced their attack on the Spanish right on the 23d, and defeated two divisions of the Valencians and Murcians, who retreated with considerable loss towards Saragossa.

Subsequent accounts from Saragossa, of the 25th, state that the Arragonese and Andalusian divisions did not suffer much, and had been able to retire in order, which is confirmed by the French accounts.

The precise route taken by gen. Castanos' army is not given. Saragossa was to be defended by 15,000 strong.

Gen. Hope's division arrived at Villa Castin on the 28th ult. and would be at Arevola the 29th, on his route to Salamanca, in the neighborhood of which place it was expected he would form a junction with sir John Moore.

Alexandria Daily Gazette.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 1.

☞ From a disappointment in receiving Paper by the Stage, owing to the badness of the Roads we suppose, we are compelled to make use of Paper of a much smaller Size this Day.

The Senate yesterday concurred in the amendments made by the House of Representatives to their bill for interdicting the Commercial Intercourse between France, Great Britain and this country, and a partial repeal of the Embargo. On the question for concurring with the amendment striking out that part of the 11th section granting the power of issuing letters of marque and reprisal the division was Ayes 17, Noes 14. The bill only requires the signature of the President to become a law.

On Monday, 27th ultimo, an election was held at the Library for President and Directors for the ensuing year—at the close of which the following gentlemen were duly elected:—

MILITARY SPIRIT.

The modest col. BILL DUANE pays the following beautiful compliment to Congress, in return no doubt, for his appointment to a colonel's commission in the American army. In a late AURORA, the col. says, "So little are these men in Congress fitted for their stations or to steer the nation thro' the perils which the executive had already effected with so much skill and discretion, that

All law is forgotten—
National rights are overlooked,—
National shame is not considered."

It is very true, as the Col. says "national shame is not considered;" it certainly was not when this poor devil was made a colonel in the American army, and, as respects him, all law has been forgotten, and his rights overlooked.

Speaking of the vote for raising the embargo, in the House of Representatives, the Colonel says, "It is a solemn serious truth, that the vote in question was the effect of pan c." Congress is panic struck!!

I should like to know what faction the colonel belongs to. Y.——

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE ABOVE WORK.

" We have had frequent occasion to speak of the diligence, good sense, and good intentions, of Mr. Murray; and we congratulate him sincerely on the success of this particular work. We announce this edition, because the alterations and additions are so considerable, that it is rendered almost a new work."

British Critic, July 1801.

" The examples which Mr. Murray has here selected, and the judicious reflections which accompany them, are such as can scarcely fail to make the best impressions, and to produce the best effects, on all who read them with attention. The present edition of this excellent publication, which has been long known and commended, is enlarged by the addition of twenty-two new characters, filling nearly one hundred pages."

Anti-Jacobin Review, Jan. 1804.

" We have received the tenth and last edition of this valuable work. The improvements made in it, will appear from the author's advertisement. We can only add to this account of the present useful volume, our hope that it will be extensively circulated among our countrymen."

The American Review & Literary Journal, for July, August & September, 1801.

" On reviewing this book, in its improved form, we find the facts unquestionable and highly interesting—the style correct and neat—and the general tendency of the work such as induces us strongly to recommend it, especially to young readers, who love entertainment mingled with instruction."

Evangelical Magazine, Oct 1801.

" The rapid sale of this small but valuable collection, has anticipated the commendation we are desirous to bestow. In an exemplification of more than seventy remarkable characters, many striking examples are exhibited which, in the quiet hour of reflection, may contribute to arrest the careless and wandering; to animate the sincere and virtuous; and to convince or discountenance those who have been unhappily led to oppose the highest truths." Gentleman's Magazine, Nov. 1803.
